Influence of SDGs monitoring and reviewing on the Swiss Federal SD Strategy

12th ESDN Workshop, Brussels 16 June 2015

Questions

- How to link SDGs monitoring and reviewing to NSDS processes?
- Which is the impact of SDGs on NSDS processes?
- Future developments and needs: How will NSDS processes change or develop after the SDGs?
Principles for the alignment of the NSDS on SDGs

- Implementation: The new goal and target framework needs to be integrated into the national and international strategies, programmes and policies of Switzerland.

- Coordination: For the implementation of the SDGs, we need a common roof for the processes which have been separated so far, and especially a good coordination between national and international processes.

Stakeholder Dialogue
The long-term view

- The vision defines the long-term perspective.
- The goals define priorities for the next generation.
- The actions define the priorities for the next legislative period.
Objectives of the NSDS 2016-2019

- Avoid having different tracks for SDGs and the national policy for SD
- Define clear goals/targets for SD in Switzerland
- Make a contribution to achieve the SDGs on the global level
- Make sure the NSDS is as much as possible aligned with the future SDG system (monitoring and reviewing)
- Improve the measurement of SD through indicators
- Focus of the action plan on goals/targets for which the need for action is high
- Create an aid to orientation for other actors
- Integrate SDGs as far as possible already now, but a transition phase will be necessary

How to link SDGs monitoring and reviewing with the NSDS?

- Switzerland is in favour of a strong monitoring and reviewing mechanism on a national level
- National SD indicator system MONET is being adapted right now. The same system will be extended to measure the SDG indicators for Switzerland (MONET+)
- Only one review process every four years, with a report to the UN regarding the SDGs and a report to the national government
- Monitoring and Reviewing reports show the progress and the need for further political action
- The NSDS will give the answers to the obtained results
